TESTIMONY OF PET INDUSTRY JOINT ADVISORY COUNCIL
BEFORE HOUSE AGRICULTURE COMMITTEE
HOUSE BILL 95

April 8, 2009

Position: Qualified Opposition

As the world's largest pet trade association, the Pet Industry Joint Advisory Council (PIJAC) appreciates the opportunity to offer this esteemed committee our views on House Bill 95. Representing the interests of all segments of the pet industry throughout the United States, PIJAC counts among its thousands of members various associations, organizations, corporations and individuals involved in the commercial pet trade. More specifically, we represent pet breeders, pet product manufacturers, distributors and retailers throughout Delaware who would be significantly impacted by the legislation before you today.

Let me emphasize that nobody cares more about humane breeding and rearing standards than does PIJAC. We have, for many years, provided a highly respected animal care certification program intended to ensure that employees are well trained in the care of the animals they sell; a program that is widely utilized not only by persons in the commercial pet trade but also shelters and humane societies throughout the country, and one that has even been adopted as a statutory standard. PIJAC has worked closely with the USDA on effective implementation of the Animal Welfare Act for pets since its inception over three decades ago, and has joined hands with state and local agencies to ensure adoption and enforcement of appropriate regulatory standards. We worked with legislators in Delaware to help adopt the state's pet warranty and dangerous dog laws. Our association has long been recognized as the voice for a responsible pet trade, and routinely advocates for new statutory standards that are in the best interests of companion animals and the pet-owning public. We also continually seek to advance the voluntary implementation of superior standards in the care, handling and transport of companion animals.

The bill before you today professes to have the intent of ensuring that dogs are bred in sanitary and humane conditions. Regrettably, it does little to actually accomplish that goal and would, in fact, vitiate against it.

As this committee is undoubtedly aware, commercial dog breeders are already subject to licensing and inspection pursuant to the federal Animal Welfare Act. Regulations promulgated under that act provide extensive standards for the breeding, housing, transport and general care of pet animals. The provisions of this bill would not improve upon these standards, but would significantly increase the likelihood of congenital and hereditary defects in pet dogs, thereby injuring the animals themselves, the pet owning public and Delaware citizens at large.

PIJAC is familiar with the HSUS-sponsored provision to prohibit possession of a specified number of breeding dogs, as it has been tested in states throughout the United States already in 2009. Every such legislature has rejected this provision because it is adverse to the interests of animal welfare. It is important to note that there is no correlation between the number of animals in a facility and the quality of care those animals receive or the quality of the dogs offered to the public! Some of the largest commercial breeding operators in this country employ state-of-the-art facilities, exceptional and frequent veterinary care, and the highest standards for breeding and raising their animals (typically exceeding what is required by law). Furthermore, a prohibition such as this limits the ability of dog breeders to maintain sufficiently diverse blood lines – This will result in an increase in adverse hereditary conditions, to the detriment of the dogs, pet owners and the business itself. Indeed, there is NO ONE that benefits from this provision! We urge the committee to inquire of any qualified expert as to the likelihood of increased recessive traits when breeding with limited blood lines!

As noted, PIJAC has routinely supported standards of care for the breeding, housing and transport of pet animals. Statutes for the humane and healthy breeding of dogs should focus on establishing, and providing appropriate enforcement authority for, standards that will ensure dogs are receiving quality care, nutritional sustenance, appropriate veterinary care, adequate exercise opportunities and a comfortable climate. However, this is what is already done through the Animal Welfare Act. Furthermore, it is a demonstrable fact that pet animals can and are provided humane care in abundance at countless breeding facilities of all sizes. By the same token, there are some breeders who do not comply with appropriate standards; but that has absolutely nothing to do with the number of animals in the facility.

Notwithstanding the hysteria and hyperbole disseminated by some, professionalism in the pet trade has steadily and consistently increased over the past several years, and the quality of care provided pet animals has improved and continues to do so. Most in the commercial dog trade do a good job. PIJAC is proud of its part in making this happen. At the same time, there is always room for continued improvement, and we recognize there are still those who fail to meet acceptable standards. PIJAC routinely works with legislators and regulators to close this gap, and we would be pleased to provide whatever assistance we might to this committee in furthering that objective. House Bill 95 is NOT the answer though. It would constitute poor public policy that compromises this effort. We respectfully urge the committee not to adopt this legislation as currently crafted.

Thank you greatly for your consideration of our concerns!

Respectfully submitted
